HOPS FROM POLAND

We knew from the start that it had to be Polish Hops.

Before we started our company, we were 100% sure of one thing- we wanted to work with Paweł Piłat and his Polish Hops plantation. It is a unique place in Poland and perhaps even in the whole world, where long-forgotten varieties are being restored and completely new ones are being created. And so, for nearly a decade, you will find Polish hops from Polish Hops in our portfolio!

HopzOil™: The Future of Dry Hopping Starts Here™

Tom Britz - Glacier Hops Ranch

Every year, I enjoy drinking beers hopped with wet cones, right after harvest. The complex, intense, crisp aroma of fresh hop cones makes these beers unique.

How to preserve the aroma of fresh hop cones?

I discovered we are able to create equipment and a system could capture the peak moment of aroma freshness. How? By distilling oils from fresh cones, without drying or further processing. The end result exceeded my wildest expectations. I thought beers hopped with wet cones could be brewed all year round! I realized oils of this quality are our future.

Oil vs. Hop Pellet

After the first tests among my brewer friends, the most common words used to describe the aroma were “freshness” and “intensity.”

Those who used the oils also discovered their other advantages:

- 100% natural product, without artificial carriers such as propylene glycol.
- Reduces losses up to 25% – more beer for sale.
- Easy transport: 2 bottles = 400 kg of hop pellet.
 - Intense aroma lasts up to 150 days.
 - Eliminates “hop creep” problems.

HopzOil™ is a modern alternative to hop pellets – a revolution in dry hopping.

Glacier Hops Ranch – hops from the heart of Montana that are conquering the world

Founded in 2012, Glacier Hops Ranch was the first commercial hop farm in Montana. Its location in the picturesque Flathead Valley offers a unique microclimate, ideal for growing aromatic hops. It was here that the hop revolution began, which today reaches breweries around the world.

What is Hopzoil®?

Hopzoil® is a pure essential oil obtained by steam distillation from fresh hop cones. This preserves the full range of aromas and terpenes that are often lost in traditional extraction methods (e.g., CO_2).

Available in two versions:

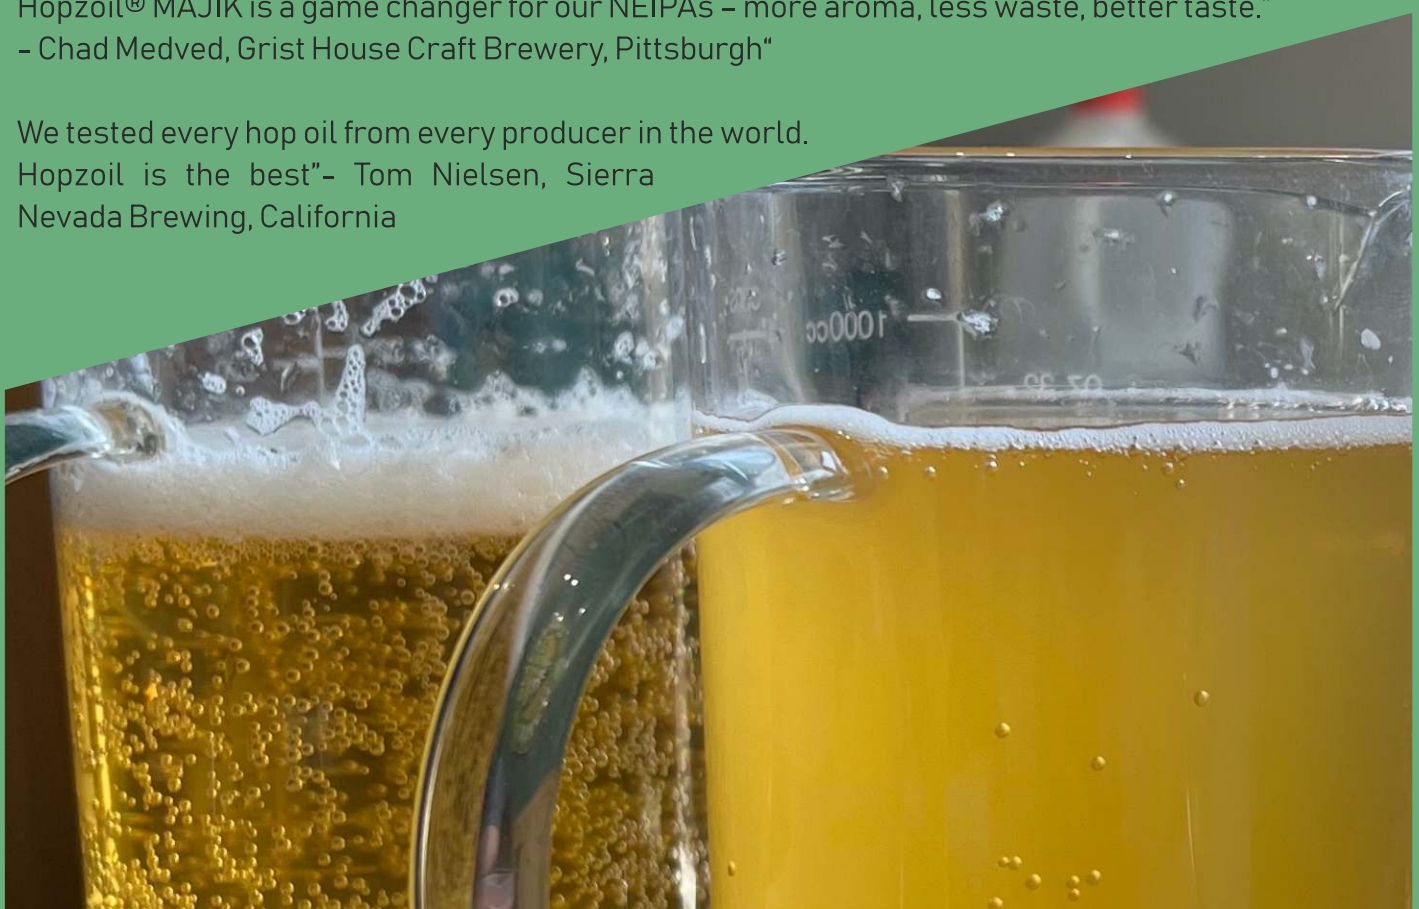

- PURE - 100% essential oil
- MAJIK - ready-to-use product, soluble in beer

Hopzoil® isn't just another ingredient—it's a game-changer for brewers:

- Increases production efficiency,
- Improves aroma quality and durability,
- Inspires the creation of new recipes,
- Wins the recognition of consumers and experts.

Hopzoil® MAJIK is a game changer for our NEIPAs – more aroma, less waste, better taste.”
– Chad Medved, Grist House Craft Brewery, Pittsburgh“

We tested every hop oil from every producer in the world.
Hopzoil is the best”– Tom Nielsen, Sierra Nevada Brewing, California
